SAP Healthy Habits

This week our focus in SAP is on building healthy routines. Children are learning about small but powerful actions like eating on time, drinking enough water, staying active, and keeping their surroundings neat. These everyday practices help shape discipline and balance in their lives.

We believe that when parents encourage the same routines at home, children adopt them more naturally. Together, school and home can make these habits a lifestyle that will benefit them for years to come.

Datesheet of 2nd Assessment

The datesheet for the 2nd Assessment will be shared this week. This advance notice will help students prepare in a relaxed and planned manner without any last-minute stress.

We encourage parents to help children balance study time with rest and play. A calm approach to preparation will build both confidence and good exam habits.

Independence Day Event Feedback

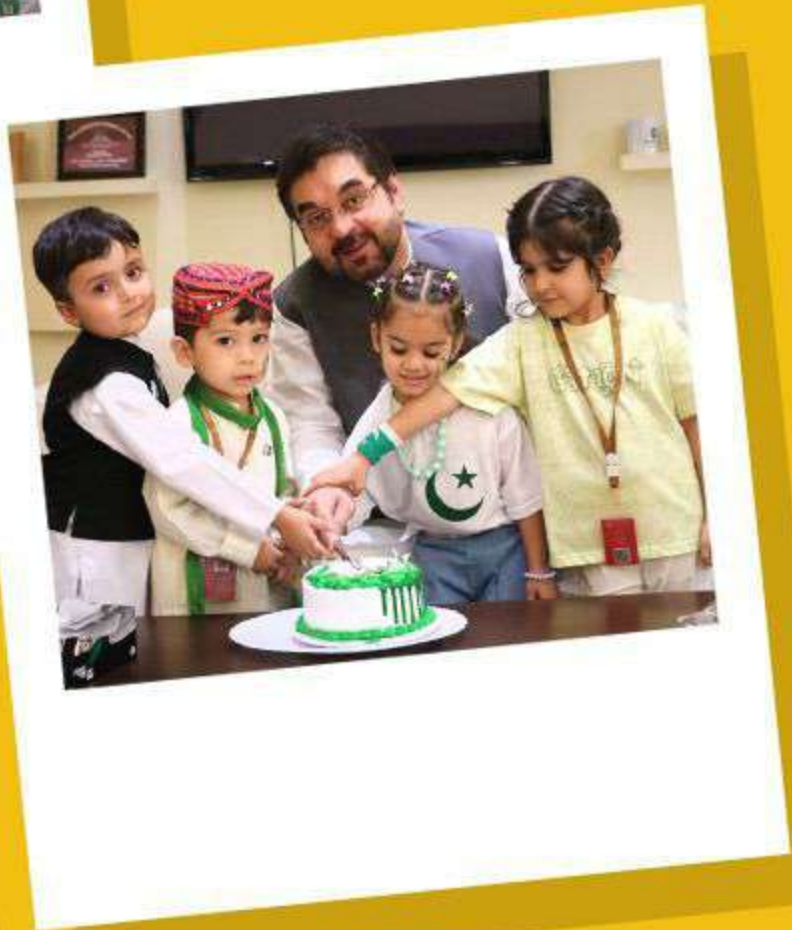

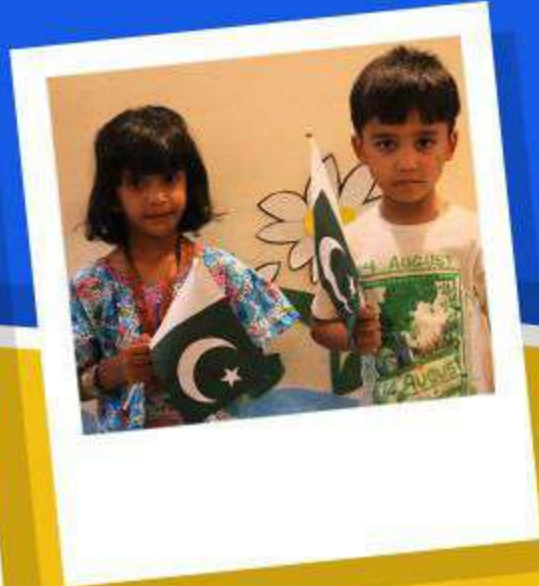

The Independence Day celebrations were filled with pride and joy as students showcased their creativity through speeches, performances, and art. It was wonderful to see parents participating with such energy.

We truly value your feedback. Sharing your thoughts will help us improve and make future events even more meaningful and memorable.

Schools Summit and STEM Upgrades

Exciting news ahead – the Schools Summit and STEM upgrades are bringing new ways of learning to our classrooms. With more focus on science, technology, engineering, and mathematics, children will experience hands-on activities that encourage creativity and problem-solving.

These upgrades reflect our vision to prepare students for the future. By combining innovation with learning, we're creating opportunities that go beyond textbooks.

Class 8 Student Achievement

A proud moment for us all – a Class 8 student composed and designed a full Independence Day song, using AI voice and lyrics. This beautiful mix of talent and technology amazed everyone at the event.

Such achievements inspire other students to think creatively and explore new possibilities. We congratulate the student and family for this milestone, which is a shining example of innovation and dedication.
